Kelvyn
Steggles

Kelvyn Steggles works in the fields of leadership assessment and development, workshop facilitation and executive coaching – his primary areas of focus include helping individuals realise their potential; on the leadership of change; on team cohesion; and on raising awareness of the impact our behaviours have on others. He has a special interest in the development of Executive Presence.

Kelvyn has extensive executive & management experience. His first career was in the financial services industry, where he held a number of senior management and executive positions with a major Clearing Bank in the UK, & in management consulting in Australia. His second career, as a consultant in Sydney, focuses on leadership development. He is able to draw on international experiences of leadership having worked in Europe, North America, Asia Pacific & Africa.

Coaching philosophy and approach

Kelvyn's coaching style is flexible yet structured; supportive yet challenging; building accountability and stretching clients to achieve their goals. He is willing to have the conversations that need to be had to help achieve client breakthroughs.

He asks the difficult questions and holds the space for client reflection. He is passionate about leadership and helping others fulfil their ambitions.

Industry knowledge and experience

Coaching since 2002 at all levels of Management up to CEO level in Australia and Internationally. Kelvyn also has significant practical experience as a line manager where he employed coaching techniques before they were fashionable. He has worked across many public and private industry sectors believing coaching is more for the person than the technical role.

Organisations he has worked with include Cisco, Macquarie Bank, Telstra, NSW Roads and Maritime Services, NSW Treasury and Tyro Payments.
